INTRODUCTION TO THE ACADEMY OF BALLETIC ARTS

The Academy of Balletic Arts (ABA) is an inspirational, forward-thinking academy that provides elite training to ensure our students achieve the highest possible standards; leading them to have a successful career.

This training program will take into account that ballet is a global entity. Students need to be capable of obtaining work internationally as well as working with choreographers from around the world. Exposure to all these aspects are essential to ensure your child is provided with every opportunity to live their dream and obtain a career as a professional dancer.

It is a very tough and competitive environment when auditioning for schools and companies. Dancers from around the world are thrown together in one studio, striving for a place at the same elite institution or company; however, it is entirely possible to achieve with access to the right elements. This is why I have created ABA. A thoughtfully devised system that trains the dancer as a whole. Utilising the mind as well as the body, encouraging self-belief and providing a depth of knowledge, which we believe is the key to unlocking talent beyond what was deemed possible. There has never been a more vital time to be working at an international standard.

With deeper insight and understanding of the art form at an earlier age, the students can take ownership of their technique, feel free to explore their endless possibilities and improve at a faster rate. Creating a sense of joy and achievement through their own motivation produces a positive progress cycle that will exist throughout their time as a professional level dancer, and beyond which is the true key to success!

PATRONS

I am thrilled to be creating the global network supported already by two wonderful patrons. Fiona Tonkin (current Principal Coach at The Australian Ballet) and Stephanie Williams (ABT).
